

The M.W. Watermark filter press is equipped with a hydraulic pressure switch. A pressure switch is mounted in the hydraulic control cabinet. When sufficient hydraulic clamping pressure is achieved, a permissive "OK to Feed" signal is sent to the main control system which, in turn, allows the press feed pump to be engaged (or disengaged with loss of signal).

